<Project Title: SiS-2008-3.0.3.1. Encouraging co-operation and networking between scientific events organizers on public engagement with science>

<Financial Scheme: CSA>

<Description: The aim of the project idea is to create an European Network of Scientific Museums in order to communicate science to general public.

Many activities have been yet organized by the Museum staff collaborating with stakeholders and with the cooperation of the Universities Contacts with similar Museum in Germany, Portugal and France, potentially interested in participating in the proposal are offered.

A lot of diffusion programs and specific events could be included in the proposal oriented to enhance the visibility of Paleontologic Science at European level, as a first step for the integral environment protection in Europe.

The Museum has very close contacts in Niger with one of the more important outcrops of the world. These resources could be used to improve the content of the proposal, even including activities in this country to promote the development in this area.
