Description of expertise:

The Centre of Social Studies of the University of Beira Interior (UBI_CES) was founded in 1994 as a structure of pure and applied research.

Under its present name UBI_CES, the Centre maintains a tight relationship with the Department of Sociology, and Social Sciences have been its main area of research. However, it also welcomes researchers belonging to other scientific fields, from the University of Beira Interior and beyond, and it encourages interdisciplinary research.

In recent years, the UBI_CES has gained more vitality, as is evident in the events in which it has been involved and in the projects in which it has participated, either as a partner or as the responsible unit. This enhanced activity was attendant on the involvement of a number of young staff members/assistants connected to the various projects. More information: www.ces.ubi.pt

Main Objectives of the UBI_CES:

The principal aim of UBI_CES is the pursuit of research in the field of Sociology and other Social Sciences. This investigation (pure, applied and investigation-action) and the activities of UBI_CES are divided between two thematic groups and lines of investigation: Development and Polices (Territorial Development, Public Policies and Citizenship and Reflexivity, Science and Technology) and Cultures and Diversity (Culture, Art and Literature and Gender and Ways of Life).
